Where are the animals?

Animal Health & Safety Come First! Animals have temperature guidelines based off of their native habitats to assure healthy living. For this reason, animals may have access to indoor heating or cooling areas as needed. The animals can then make the choice to return to their outdoor exhibits at will.

Botanic Gardens

Throughout the season, hundreds of plant varieties provide an ever-changing tapestry of beauty for our visitors and make our animals feel at home. From our Rain Garden to the Family Garden (a partnership with the Southwestern Indiana Master Gardener Association), these beautiful interactive areas are filled with ideas for your own landscape and a place for all ages to explore.

South America

Travel to the heart of the Amazon with a tour through this 10,000 square foot “greenhouse.” Enjoy the constant 75 degree temperature as you explore the stunning beauty and diversity of animal and plant life in the South American rainforest. While winding through Amazonia, visitors encounter dozens of rainforest residents from high in the canopy to the forest floor below. Tropical trees and palms soar to the 45-foot tall roof and create a lush tropical setting. Howler Monkeys and a Toucan welcome visitors to their treetop homes. A Tapir and other exotic creatures wait around each bend in the trail. Visitors are also treated to a rare look at the elusive and majestic Jaguar.
